THE RELEASE

With “Sometimes”, Tuyo Trommzález present a slow, intimate song built around a gently hypnotic Cuban bolero pulse the German-Chilean duo fell in love with while travelling through Cuba. The rhythm becomes the foundation for a song about creative doubt, feeling stuck and finding a way forward through music.

Warm, spacious production and English vocals give the track a reflective, quietly hopeful character. The duo are joined by Santaferia musicians Mauricio Lira on electric guitar and Rodrigo Gonzalez on bass. “Sometimes” is also available in Dolby Atmos, extending its intimate sound into a wider spatial experience.

ABOUT TUYO TROMMZÁLEZ

Tuyo Trommzález is a German-Chilean duo shaped by more than fifteen years of shared life, music and inspiration. Their songs draw from travel, exchange and the people and places that have become part of their story, moving naturally between reggae, bossa nova and bolero. Singing in Spanish, German and English, Lena Trommsdorff and Tatán González combine intimate songwriting with violin, trumpet, piano and guitar, creating music that feels warm, personal and open. Their songs explore love, uncertainty, hope and the changing meaning of home.
